CSS Display

BLOCK

Starts on a new line and spans the entire width.

Examples: `<h1>-<h6>` ``

INLINE

Displays inline with othere elements. Any height and width properties, as well as margin-top and margin-bottom have no effect.

Examples: `` ``

INLINE-BLOCK

The element is an inline element, but can be formatted with width, height and top and bottom margin.

Example: `` which can have width/height properties.

"I'm a block element!"

"Me too!" "I'm inline!" "I'm inline-block"
